DIALOGUE ON CAREER GUIDANCE & SOCIAL JUSTICE AND HOW THEY ARE INTER-LINKED

The Career Guidance for Social Justice site was created following the publication of Career Guidance for Social Justice and Career Guidance for Emancipation. Career guidance for social justice \(wordpress.com\) It has served as part of the promotion of these two books, but has also housed opinion pieces, essays, resources and materials inspired by, and in tune with, the books.

The site is now building on the ideas contained within the books and act as a space for the community of people interested in career guidance and social justice to share ideas. It is also a place to collect examples of practice and reflections on those practices.

The site is aimed at all practitioners and researchers who are involved in delivering, researching, supporting, and theorizing career guidance. There is no single ideological or theoretical line that defines the site. Rather all materials posted on the site demonstrate a concern with social justice and have a clear relevance to career and career guidance.
